

Your Money & You: Personal Finance

Mondays | 12:00 PM - 12:50 PM | Via Zoom and/or in-person

Instructor: Gina Frisina

Bring your lunch along and join us while we increase our understanding of financial management together. As each of us are consumers to some degree, this interactive class tends to fill quickly and is in high demand since so many of us can benefit from budgeting and spending techniques...especially as technology evolves in this area. Taught by an instructor with their Masters in Education coupled with experience working at a bank and teaching personal finance for decades at a NY college. The class offers ongoing topics and vary from session to session however students can reasonably expect to increase their knowledge and understanding of the following:

- Introduction to Personal Finance: Key components of personal finance, including income, spending, savings, credit, and money management choices.
- Money Management Tools: Tracking spending, using apps, & safe debit card use.
- Consumer Awareness: How to be a wise consumer, including reading advertisements, recognizing scams, and avoiding identity theft.
- Banking & Purchasing: Navigating online banking services, understanding the difference between credit and debit, and tips for shopping online vs. in-store.
- Smart Shopping: Estimating prices, using unit pricing, and finding the best deals.
- Weekly Problem-Solving Money Situations: Addressing questions like, "What to do if I lost my wallet? Should I loan money to friends? How should I use online reviews for purchases?"

Taken online or in person at our studio, join us for all of the above and more!
