This highly interactive Acting and Performing Arts-based class will teach students how to put a show together from start to finish. Students will learn all aspects of creating, writing, developing scenes, designing props and a set and of course acting/singing/dancing in the show itself if they choose. Instructor David Macaluso makes sure each of his students are engaged and leave his class having learned or built upon their theater and acting knowledge. This class will run into late Spring and culminate in a community performance. We cannot wait to see what David and students put together, you do not want to miss out on this class experience!
