In this ongoing class, students will not only learn the fundamental “how to” behind the blending of Podcasting, Voice Overs and Animation for Podcasts but also how the three are connected and supportive of one another. This interactive class can be taken via Zoom and/or in person and will teach students interested in the world of Podcast, U.O. and Animation how REAL history has influenced some of our greatest creative content within this evolving realm. Students will become well-versed in the historical timeline of early radio Voice Overs to voiced cartoons to the emergence of Anime in films to the video game industry revolution to advanced Podcast series and content creation. Instructor Peter W.’s professional background and training makes him the ideal instructor to showcase how these three creative aspects have blended perfectly.
