This class will continue to focus on Disney and Broadway however we will also learn about several other productions that have led to some of Broadway's most popular, highest-grossing shows. This interactive class will be a gateway to discovering the creative collaborations and history of what went into these shows and what makes them so wonderful. We will read and learn about constructive criticism and the creative process. We will engage in discussions and, along the way, we might have to get up and dance a little - and probably sing a lot!
